Peter Glenn stores sell National Ski Patrol First Aid Kits

Lakewood, Colo. – Peter Glenn Ski and Sports stores has partnered with the National Ski Patrol (NSP) to provide NSP First Aid Kits to the public, beginning after Labor Day weekend.

"We are very excited about our new partnership with the Peter Glenn stores," said NSP Executive Director Tim White. "We are proud to partner with such a reputable company that supports the ski industry and getting new skiers and riders on the hill."

The NSP First Aid Travel Kit is the perfect personal first aid kit for travel, camping, and day hiking. Sales of the kits support the NSP and its fundraising efforts, which helps fund NSP training programs for patrollers. Purchasing an NSP First Aid Kit helps keep the ski slopes safer, and helps save lives.

"Peter Glenn Ski and Sports is excited to be stocking the First Aid Kits for the upcoming season," said Peter Hamilton, president of Peter Glenn Ski and Sports. "This is an item that everyone should have, skier or not, and we hope to raise lots of money to help support the National Ski Patrol."
